What is a Credit Union

Credit Unions are not-for-profit meaning there aren't any shareholders. All profits return to members through better rates on loans and savings dividends.

Adult & Student Financial Education

Did you know that Cove Federal Credit Union has free Financial Education programs available for students and adults? Unfortunately many adults learn about money the hard way-through real life experience. It is never too late to learn how to budget or how to build and maintain your credit score. Cove Credit Union provides one-on-one financial counseling to help members achieve their financial goals.

For students, Cove offers education on how to make smart money choices and what you need to know about money once you graduate to the real world!

If your church or school would be interested in these financial education programs, please email members@covefcu.com for more information.
